“ I'll keep my promise of what i will do, to continue to live my life without you, I will get up each morning & get through my day, struggling past tears every step of the way. I will go on with life with a forced happy face for what I cannot replace. I don't know what to do with the pain, it's so hard, here without you where I must remain. But I will keep my promise and i believe that you'll be there waiting when it's my time to leave 💔
