“ Oh my goodness, when we were kids in the early 60's and lived across the street from Gene and his family, there wasn't a day that went by that we were not at his house or him at ours. We had so many great memories .

The funniest being when we were told to stay out of the tree in the front yard while his parents were gone and his sister was watching us... Needless to say they got in the tree and I was throwing a frisbee up into the so they could catch it. Gene slipped while trying to reach for it, he tried to fly (literally flapping both arms like a bird) and fell breaking his arm. The first thing he told Gail when she came running was "Don't tell momma" and his arm was broken for sure...we laughed about that not long ago when i went and visited him in the nursing home. They have always been family to us. During my visit i did talk to Gene about his salvation and he assured me that he knew the Lord and hen he did he would be in Heaven, that gives me comfort and peace that he knew his Savior. Gene, you will be missed and I loved you.....
