“ Dear Melissa, You are such a beautiful person inside and out, always kind to everyone. Your son inherited your big heart. My heart is broken, every parent's worst nightmare.

It was a glory and an honor to all those who knew Cody....Had him in their lives!!!

But we Christians do not lose hope, we believe in eternal life and seeing our loved ones again. His beautiful soul is now dancing with the angels...

“ I don't have the right words; you were born with a big heart and a sensitive side, and you just struggled to navigate in the world, a world can be so hard sometimes. Your first sentences were, I'll do it. I'll get it and it's mine. From the beginning. You always had a hug for everyone, big hugs and I will choose to remember the love and light that you shared. I am hearing over and over again from people how much you cared about everyone else and how much you love them. Sometimes that got overshadowed when your emotions got to be too much for you and you made chronic mistakes but I hear them speak with such heartfelt love For the person you always were who those you cared about even through your own personal struggle . I am trying hard to find a way to continue to hold that light. Family and friends tend to post on social media and not here nowadays I guess this site is for us old people as you'd joke. I love you always

“ Melissa, my heart is broken. As his 5th grade teacher I saw lots of sides of Cody. That was one of my best years at The Ridge - I had everything that year, ESL students, gifted students, Special ed students & Yoon Suk who spoke limited english - Cody stuck by his side constantly - BIG heart- Rest in peace sweet boy!!!!

“ You have given me so many memories they keep playing in my head like a slow movie. The rockslide at Tribble Mill. Hanging out in the parking lot of the Avenue. All the hangouts at friends houses. Pool nights with everybody. Riding around in a packed car living life young and careless. There was never a time that ended in anything other than laughs and hugs. Being able to know you from our teens til now, I know now was a pure blessing. I watched you grow yet still remain the same. You had such a big heart filled with so much love for everyone. You were not afraid to let someone know how much they meant to you. I've always said there is not a single person like you on this earth. You are the true definition of one of a kind. You were so special, I can only pray you truly knew it. I hope you were able to find peace when you left us. I pray you are reunited with friends we have lost along the years. I hope you feel how much everyone loves you. You may be gone but memories of you will last forever.

I am praying for the family. These days are filled with a lot of hurt but I pray they can still feel your presence. No matter the time or day you all have so many people that are here for anything you need. I hope that they can find a little bit of peace seeing how many life's you touched.

I am praying for friends and everybody who is broken over losing you.

Until we meet again, I will forever replay every memory you left me with.

I love you always and forever our angel. □
