“ I got the blessing of meeting this sweet guy when we were both helping his Aunt Freda move. His selflessness spoke volumes that day! We talked a bit realizing that he and his family live in Williamson and I had lived there for many years in the past..for an itty bitty town like that..who would have thought!..lol.

This guy worked tirelessly that day even though looking back I have to realize that he was likely already suffering in his body. If he seen me with a piece of furniture in my hands he took it from me..If I were carrying even the lightest of things..he held the door for me. We were tired, but you could tell he never wanted to show it..he was helping his Aunt with a joyful heart that only God provides. He hugged her several times that day as she cried with the sheer overwhelming of the help she was receiving from her precious nephews. I was blessed that day to be working along side those boys!

The next time I got to share in the life of this precious guy..I will never forget as long as I live..watching his brothers caring for him a few nights ago as he was preparing for his journey home. The site of the love between them four brothers is one to behold..

I wish that wonderful boy Godspeed for his next journey and this WONDERUL family Gods comfort knowing he is in his Fathers arms..pain free..with clear blue eyes and that PRECIOUS smile returned.

Love and comfort to you ALL!

Angie
