“ To the Family of Tammy~

I met Tammy similarly to so many of you in the stories I've read here.

I too saw her walking alongside the roads we shared. I stopped one day & asked her if I could give her a lift, she said, "Sure, I really appreciate it."

We did our introductions & pleasantries, then got to the important stuff.

She said, "I really like your pocketbook". We talked a little more about life, family & the rest.....before we reached her destination, she said, " I would really like a new pocketbook if you run across one", as I had shared with her I find some really good bargains when I'm out thrifting. I told her I would be on the lookout for one.....

She said, " Ok Liz Claiborne, that's what I'm gonna call ya". (my name is Liz) so in 10 minutes or less she had given me a nickname !

There were a few times I had given her a lift, here or there.....

Now she's been given the ultimate LIFT

God bless you, Tammy

Liz (Claiborne)

“ I have given Tammy rides on several occasions and whenever I saw her and couldn't pick her up, I would always pray for the Lord to protect her as she walked along. One of my favorite memories of giving her a ride was a day I had a lot of stuff in my van getting ready for a golf tournament, and I will never forget her talking about how many "real co-cola's" I had. "What are you doing with so many real co-cola's?" she asked me. Of coarse, when I took her home, I gave her some "real co-cola's". She was so happy. She always remembered me whenever I would stop and give her a ride. This breaks my heart, but I know she is enjoying ALL "The Real Stuff" now, in Heaven. God give peace and strength to her family and friends.

Your friend,
BJ Lawrence

“ Tammy was one of a kind! She kept me laughing with some of her antics on facebook. She was a true friend to me, after my son, took his own life. She was a better friend to me, than some of my "real friends".... maybe they didn't know how to be. She knew how to show compassion - when it was hardest. (She could cuss you out, too!!!) I'll miss her. I know that she is rejoicing in Heaven, but I hope she knows how much she was loved. Praying for her family and friends. God Bless.

“ I'm not exactly sure when I met Tammy but I'll always remember the day...it was raining cats and dogs and she was standing at the intersection on 19 41 and Zebulon Rd. she had her umbrella and was waiting to cross the road, I asked her if I could give her a ride, she said I'm just going to Ingles across the street and got in the car. LOL! I introduced myself and she told me her name, I thought it was interesting since my sister's name is Tammy too, of course we laughed at that and that started a whole conversation about many things, men, pocket books and the Lord! We talked a little while and she said "you remind me of Joyce Meyer"...only reason I can figure is my voice is kinda deep and we talked alot about the Lord that day, and every time I saw her after...and the last time I saw her she was still calling me Joyce Meyer! She was a kind soul, liked to talk, and laugh and poke me in the side while I was driving...I never figured that one out! LOL Anyway, it's been quite a while since I've seen her since I've moved out of Griffin. I want her family to know that you are in my prayers, and no doubt Tammy left a mark on everyone's heart that knew her...including mine! She will be missed!
