My brother deserved nothing of the sort. Be a man a list your name do t talk bad about him and hide behind anonymity punk. Wayne

Larry wayne Crawford - December 17, 2024 at 02:27 PM

Can't believe they even let you post something like that. Obviously you have no idea what you are talking about. Terry was taken way to soon. Like Wayne said he deserved nothing of the sort and be a adult and put a name with your words.

“ My uncle Terry was a wonderful man. Like my family has said, he was a loved uncle, brother, and father. He always told me when I was young, that if I needed him for anything, to call him. He wouldn't ask questions and would simply handle the issue. He always loved me, and reminded me every time I saw him that he did.

I remember the last thing he said to me was that he loved me. That we'd all get through Sissy's departure together. It made me feel that much better about it, knowing he cared even if we didn't talk too much. I still remember him getting mad at me whenever I didn't give him a hug at each family event, and he always did give wonderful hugs.

He would give his shirt off his back to anyone, even if it meant he got poured down on in the rain. He was lover and protected his family with that love, even if you weren't blood related.

I'll miss you so much Uncle Terry. You were somebody I could depend on and it frightens me that I won't ever have the opportunity to call on you when I need you. Tell Sissy for us that we miss her so much and make sure you give her a hug for me.

I love and miss you so much.

“ Terry Crawford was a good man that had love for his family like no other. He was my uncle and I considered him like another father to me. My dad and him have known each other since the beginning of time and they have been bestfriends since. Every time my dad would call me on the phone it would sound just like my Uncle Terry and I would be confused sometimes. My uncle knew how to have a good time and always cared for his family. He was the type of man that would throw down over one of his family members with no questions about it. The last time I seen my uncle was a couple weeks ago and he was making jokes back to back being the light of the room. He gave me numerous hugs and told me how proud he was of me getting my new car after my last one was totaled. He showed me pictures of my dad and him on the football team when they were young. I've seen the photos a million times but I listened to him go on about how him and my dad would play and I enjoyed every second of it. He was always the one I would go to for my car whenever it would have problems and he was so smart at what he did he helped every time. He had this contagious laugh that would make you smile and he was also very protective over his family. He did not deserve what has happened to him but no one will forget him and the strong impact he left on our family. He will forever grow in my heart. I love you Uncle Terry , your niece “cass” 🥺❤️

“ You were the best step father I've ever had you treated me my brother and sister as if we were your own children. The day you and mom divorced it broke my heart but regardless of you two splitting I knew you would be there. We have so many memories but one I'll forever cherish is you letting me drive your truck without a license when I was super young all because you didn't have one either 😂 having long conversation about anything and everything. You take care of my boy up there in heaven even though you only met him one time for a short minute he would have loved you. Now you two get to spend forever together so give my boy lots of hugs and kisses from mommy. See you soon terry see you soon

“ I just wanted to take the time to acknowledge how awesome of a father-in-law you’ve been to me! There is no “were” to me, because you always will be my father-in-law. You treated me like one of your own, and I will forever cherish the years I was able to be apart of your life! You always told me and chase how proud of us you were, and the countless times of I love you’s. I’m glad the last time I saw you I got to hug you and let you know I loved you. You always talked about how you would be the pawpaw to mine and chases children one day, no matter the circumstances. We looked forward to that. The last time I saw you, we were headed to get chase’s tux for our wedding, you were supposed to be a groomsman and to not be able to have you there is heart crushing. You took a big piece of our hearts with you to heaven. I love you terry, me and chase love you more than words could EVER explain. Thank you for always being a great loving person. Your memory will live on, you will still be pawpaw, and we will have a seat reserved for you at the wedding. You always said you wouldn’t miss it for the world. It’s never goodbye, it’s see you later ❤️

Please watch out for your children, sisters, brother, nieces, nephews, aunts/uncles, cousins, your dad, China bear aka “the most beautiful girl in the whole wide world”. I know your mama greeted you with open arms!

Very well said and he’s definitely watching over you both!! (Baby too)!

Heather Brown - July 26, 2021 at 12:47 AM

Very well said made Casey and I both tear up... you both know you we're loved 🤔 by Terry and "ONCE" he let you in... Wow it took me over a year to finally be "family" but I know he didn't want to see Casey his brother, best friend hurt again, and I had nothing but the utmost respect for him, bc of that! I took the 3rd degree bc I knew it would take time for him to see I wasn't there to hurt Casey just show him what true love is... I am so grateful he was able to see that in Casey and see Casey happy for the 1st time in years!! That just makes me cry to think about it now... I know you both are probably having a very rough time just as Casey is, but time will eventually give you some peace and know he's watching over your family!! Much love ~ The Browns~ Casey and Heather ❤️

“ My Uncle Terry was a truly special person and is so loved by his entire family. He was a fighter: fiercely loyal to those he loved. He could make you laugh your ass off, and had a contagious laugh that filled a room. He never took life too seriously and loved to have a good time. He was, like all of us Crawford, the kind of man who would give the shirt off his back for anyone who needed it. He loved his kids tremendously, and the rest of his family too. He was especially dear to me, and our world is a worse place without him in it. He was, for me, the fun Uncle, and the brother my Dad could call upon if shit got real. He was the type of guy that any of my boyfriends were scared shitless of, and when I finally found a man he approved of, I knew I'd made the right choice. I'm thankful for the last beer that Chase and he shared together, Christmas of 2019, and for every time he told me he was proud of me. I'm thankful for the last time I hugged him, at my Sissy's funeral in January. I'll never forget his crazy antics, his inner kid that made him the cool Uncle. I remember him with us, his kids, nieces, and nephews, throwing us up in the pool over and over again each summer at Paula's in Locust Grove. One Easter, when I was very young, he whispered to me where the grand prize egg was hidden for our egg hunt, a happy little memory I'll always have of him. I'm the oldest of Sissy's grandkids, and he always held me to a high expectation, always believed in me to do something great. I've always striven to live up to that.

He protected the people he loved, always, no questions asked. Ride or die, true and genuine always. A fierce protector, a loyal friend, a beloved father, a precious son, a cherished brother, an unforgettable uncle.

Justice for Terry. I will not forget. I will think of you fondly, always, and I will live the fullest life I can, for you and for Sissy. We love you, forever. Give Sissy a kiss for me.
